

Centre for Studies in Banking and Finance (CSBF)

The CSBF was established by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) in 2002 to provide a venue for scholars and practitioners to exchange views on banking and financial systems through its Conferences, Workshops and Discussion Forums. Through the corpus fund received by the RBI, CSBF seeks to promote scholarship about the robustness and vibrancy of the banking sector, capital markets and other financial services. CSBF aims to build intellectual capacity in the areas of financial markets, corporate finance and related legal and regulatory issues by undertaking research and organizing events.

Objectives

With the banking and financial services industry at the cusp of change, the CSBF strives to evolve as an inclusive and collaborative Centre of excellence for policy research in banking and finance through:

- ❖ Organizing a yearly Banking and Finance Conference, bringing together leading policy makers, enforcers, academics and practitioners to discuss on issues of topical relevance and systemic importance.
- ❖ Hosting the Guest Lecture Programs to enhance the students' understanding of how the financial sector contributes to real sector growth, bringing together academic and industry experts in the areas in which the Centre is interested.
- ❖ Offering training avenues and internship opportunities under the aegis of RBI, building practical and analytical capabilities.
- ❖ Providing a platform for dedicated research and informed dialogue by academic thinking, rigorous in approach and relevant in application.
- ❖ Partnering with institutions of similar mandate for academically beneficial relationships.

Scholasticus

Scholasticus (ISSN 0975-1157) is an international multi-disciplinary journal of CSBF released by the National Law University, Jodhpur under the patronage of the Reserve Bank of India. The primary function is to provide a forum to writers, enabling them to voice their opinions about the visions and goals of the Indian and global society.

It provides a platform for cutting edge academic research and writing amongst the students through a structured process of mentoring and supervision. The journal endeavours to build an in-house writing and editing team of Editors and Associate Members, comprising of students from the first to the final years. The Editors undertake the task of mentoring Associate Members in honing their legal writing skills and preparing them as prospective editors.

Towards the ends of generating and sustaining a democratic debate on emergent issues, the Journal has published interesting works by luminaries and scholars such as:

Justice K. G. Balakrishnan, Former CJI

Fali S. Nariman, Senior Advocate, Supreme Court of India

Justice Guman Singh, Former Judge, Rajasthan High Court

C. Scott Pryor, Professor, Regent University School of Law
