TRAINING PROGRAMME DETAILS

- Programme Introduction

The programme is aimed at equipping the participants with the knowledge on pressing environmental problems and their possible solutions, while awakening them to their shared responsibility to protect our planet. It is marked by extensive discussions on issues of environment, climate change, law, policy, implementation and the role of courts, science and civil society in the protection of the environment, life and health of the people. Lectures by eminent persons, field trips and the experience of living in the lap of nature will together inspire all participants to understand their responsibility and take suitable action, who will then be required to write and present an essay to conclude the camp.¹

- Resource Persons

Eminent jurists, environmentalists, scientists, experts working in the field of law, pollution control, education and biodiversity conversation along with Mr. M.C.Mehta himself.

- Target Group

The program is exclusively designed for the lawyers, environmental activists, social and environmental NGOs' professionals, senior executives from various industries, environmental researchers, educators, participants of different disciplines (including law, science, engineering, commerce, arts etc.), and for all those who want a clean and green India for the present and future generations. This will provide an opportunity to share views, understand the environment and its challenges, read the law and policies related thereto, and arrive at possible solutions to strengthen enforcement of environmental law and improve status quo.

- Benefits

The participants will be given a rare opportunity to learn from, interact with and understand environmental issues from experts in the field who have dedicated their lives towards protecting nature. Eminent jurists, environmentalists, scientists and experts working in the fields of law, pollution control, forests, bio-diversity conservation, climate change and disaster management will address the participants apart from holding discussions and sharing their experiences. Besides, the program will also help by providing the skills and experience required to establish a successful and responsible career in their desirable field. Above all, the program will help participants to become aware, active and accountable citizens.

¹ A brochure on the camp with detailed Time Table, speaker information and pictures will follow soon.
