About Seminar

The Faculty of Law, University of Lucknow is a premier institution of India. The faculty in the pursuit of academic excellence is organizing a National Seminar on "INDIAN CRIMINAL JUSTICE SYSTEM: EMERGING DIMENSIONS" on 12th November, 2016 in Faculty of Law, University of Lucknow. The crime and society are inextricably interlinked. With the passage of time the perpetrators are using innovative ways to commit crimes and technological advancement has fanned the flame. There is a surge in criminal activities in modern Indian scenario. The Indian landscape is painted in red in every way. The crime against women has seen an unprecedented surge especially in matter of crimes against her person and body. The juvenile delinquency is undergoing a turmoil as Parliament recently made amendment as to the age of juvenile. Prevention of crime and forensic investigation has become very complex in the modern world due to advent of technology. The issues of penology like compensation to victims, police reforms and poor investigation of criminal cases and witness protection programme has taken a lead in this arena. The issues pertaining to prosecution and trials of perpetrators has always been a crucial issue in effective implementation of law. The whole inclination of Indian criminal justice system is seen tilted in the favour of classical theory of punishment which is also known as lex talionis. This inclination is a matter of caution for civilized society and constitutional Governance which confers safeguards to prisoners and arrestees and under trials as we are a country governed by Rule of law.

The idea of having a National Seminar on such a heart rending issue is a very sensitive and sincere endeavour of Faculty of Law wherein the Faculty shall be providing a huge platform to the world of academia, professionals, lawyers and members of civil society for discussions, deliberations and debate over such crucial issues which are essential canons for laying down the bedrock foundation of couth, egalitarian republic which is free from criminogenic environment and where crimes are effectively prevented and if committed are brought to justice.
