1ST INTERNATIONAL SEMINAR (ONE DAY)
“Environmental Law & Governance: Issues and Challenges”

About Institute:

University Institute of Legal Studies (UILS), Chandigarh University is making a rapid progress by imparting comprehensive legal education to illuminate pragmatic and theoretical concerns to achieve excellence in the field of law. Congenial learning environment and professionally driven curriculum at the Best College for Legal Studies in India entails both rigorous and general classroom teaching and participative learning.. We are organizing a 1st International Seminar (One day) to be held on – 22.09.18 (Saturday) on the following: “Environmental Law & Governance: Issues and Challenges”.

About International Seminar:

The Stockholm Declaration acknowledged that man is innate entity of a nature, and life depends on it. U. Thant, then secretary General, United Nations, in Stockholm Conference appealed “Like or not, we are travelling together on a common planet and we have no national alternative but to work together, to make an environment in which we and our children can live a full and peaceful life.

Quality of environment determines the quality of life. Clean environment helps in enriching the quality of life. In the past few decades’ awareness of the damaging effects of environmental pollution on human beings and their quality of life has increased dramatically. In the hustle-bustle of life, man has almost forgotten nature and has become more and more modernized with the aid of latest scientific and technological developments.

The major environmental concerns of today are noise pollution, air pollution, resulting from industrial development; water pollution from industrial and domestic effluent, soil erosion, deforestation, and loss of wild life, ugly landscapes and city slums resulting from a growing population. Similarly, the scientific and technological development has also left its impact on the quality of environment. There are several issues like climate change, depletion in ozone layer, acid rain, biotechnology, bioterrorism, e-waste, etc and its impact on the quality of environment.

Undoubtedly the Indian judiciary has done a yeomen service in protecting the environment, however, at times it has been excessive activist in its approach. The response of the legislature and the role of the executive in protecting the environment need to be revisited. The concern for preserving the quality of life and promoting the environment while undertaking the task of development is very necessary.

Today, the time has come to protect and save our environment. Right to healthy and wholesome environment has been recognized as a human right. This Seminar aims at discussing the various issues, concerns and challenges in environment protection and the role of the law in chalking out the roadmap for future.

Sub Theme:

- 1- Stockholm declaration & its impact on state sensitization towards environment legislation;
- 2- E-Waste effect and disposal management;
- 3- Human Rights vis-à-vis environment;
- 4- Judicial Respond on the protection of the environmental law in India;

Note: The Author can submit the paper on any relevant theme related to the main theme of the International Seminar.
