

About AmicusX:

AmicusX is an online platform which brings to every man a composite platform of knowledge and information who is interested in gathering knowledge, researching or reading topics on law. This website is the result of the enthusiasm of a group of law students, lawyers and laymen, who have come together to decode and understand the language of the laws which govern our day to day lives. The website offers its visitors an opportunity to read about different legal aspects through its blogs and the offer does not end there. The special feature of chatting on our website, provides legal guidance and answer to any legal queries posed by any person.

AmicusX being a community by the members of the legal fraternity believes that the first step towards success in this field is Research and Writing Skills. We through blogs and the various workshops and various forms of research writing competitions are working day and night to cater to the needs of the students and those who want to improve their research skills.

Call for Blogs:

Amicusx.com being a forum, provides opportunities to every student to enhance their writing skills. Now, the website offers every student to submit their legal opinions on any topic of their choice, in the form of blogs. The blogs should be innovative, informative and should highlight the opinion of the author.

Com'n guys! Lets voice our opinions and let the world know, what we think of!!

Participate in this writing spree with No Entry Fee. All the selected blogs will be published on this website.

All the selected blog writers will be given an Online Certificate of Participation and the top 2 blog writers will be offered a position of a regular contributor of this website.
